Choosing the right school for film or television studies is a challenge. You must evaluate everything: location, size, academic opportunities, access to equipment, curriculum, general philosophy, and reputation. In this generous guide, distinguished film teacher and director Ernest Pintoff lists 639 undergraduate and graduate schools in America that offers programs in cinema and television. He details curricular emphasis, facilities and equipment, special activities, degrees offered, and the strengths of individual schools, as well as a glossary of technical terms. Including insider advice on how to get the most out of film school from acclaimed directors such as Paul Mazursky and writers such as Stu Silver, as well as from current students and recent graduates, this invaluable guide will steer anyone who wants to get into filmmaking in the right direction. "Like Dr. Johnson's dictionary, Professor Pintoff's book is a publishing first--all the information that an aspiring film student needs to make an informed decision about his education can now be found between the covers of this book." - Robert Towne, screenwriter "Learning your craft is Priority One if you want to be a filmmaker. This book beckons you to an indispensable first step." - Jack Valenti, President, Motion Pictures Association of America

The Complete Guide to Low-Budget Feature Filmmaking

SMPTE Journal

The world of cinematography has changed more in the last few years than it has since it has in 1929, when sound recording was introduced. New technology, new tools and new methods have revolutionized the art and craft of telling stories visually. While some aspects of visual language, lighting and color are eternal, shooting methods, workflow and cameras have changed radically. Even experienced film artists have a need to update and review new methods and equipment. These changes affect not only the director of photography but also the director, the camera assistants, gaffers, and digital imaging technicians. Cinematography: Theory and Practice covers both the artistry and craftsmanship of cinematography and visual storytelling. Few art forms are as tied to their tools and technology as is cinematography. Take your mastery of these new tools, techniques, and roles to the next level with this cutting-edge roadmap from author and filmmaker Blain Brown. Whether you are a student of filmmaking, just breaking into the business, currently working in the industry and looking to move up to the next level, or an experienced professional who wants to update their knowledge of tools and techniques, this book provides both a basic introduction to these issues as well as more advanced and in-depth coverage of the subject. The companion website features additional material, including lighting demonstrations, basic methods of lighting, using diffusion and other topics. Topics Include: Visual language Visual storytelling Continuity and coverage Cameras and digital sensors Exposure techniques for film and video Color in-depth Understanding digital images Waveform monitors, vectorscopes, and test charts Using linear, gamma, and log encoded video Image control and grading on the set The tools and basics of film lighting ASC-CDL, ACES and other new methods Optics and focus Camera movement Set operations Green screen, high speed and other topics

A Dictionary of Film Studies

Written by experts in the field, this dictionary covers all aspects of film studies, including terms, concepts, debates, and movements in film theory and criticism, national, international and transnational cinemas, film history, film movements and genres, film industry organizations and practices, and key technical terms and concepts in 500 detailed entries. Most entries also feature recommendations for further reading and a large number also have web links. The web links are listed and regularly updated on a companion website that complements the printed book. The dictionary is international in its approach, covering national cinemas, genres, and film movements from around the world such as the Nouvelle Vague, Latin American cinema, the Latsploitation film, Bollywood, Yiddish cinema, the spaghetti western, and World cinema. The most up-to-date dictionary of its kind available, this is a must-have for all students of film studies and ancillary subjects, as well as an informative read for cinephiles and for anyone with an interest in films and film criticism.

The 16SR Book is a comprehensive manual to the world's most widely used motion picture camera. Designed for both assistants and SR owners, this book incorporates both a detailed guide to the Arriflex 16SR camera systems as well as a complete assistant's manual for prep, operating and maintenance techniques that can be used on most camera systems. New York Director of Photography Jon Fauer details every aspect of the SR from lenses to electronics and to illustrate a variety of production solutions to problems assistants commonly face. In addition to sections on the SR's design, handling and range of lenses and accessories, he has included assistant-oriented sections with in-depth coverage on setups for simple lens tests, checking depth and collimation, marking eyepiece focus and video assist adjustments. The book features exploded view drawings and photographs of every SR component, an end-of-day cleaning and maintenance checklist, Zeiss depth-of-field charts, and much more.

The Illinois Production Guide

Most books about film production assume that you have an idea and a script to shoot. Most screenwriting books are geared to how to write a script that you can sell to Hollywood (as though the authors of these books had the slightest clue) and do not take into consideration that you might be shooting the script yourself, possibly with your own money. This book is about how to write a script properly that you can rationally shoot, how to shoot it, how to finish it, how to sell it, and also how to get it shown.
